The Difficulty of Preventing the Negroes from Running into the Federal Lines.

Decidedly the most important and instructive information we have yet received from the rebel States reached us yesterday from our special correspondents at Fortress Monroe. From the Richmond Whig, Dispatch, Enquirer, Examiner, Sentinel, Petersburg Express, of the 30th of November, and the Atlanta, Georgia, Appeal, of the 23d of November, copious extracts will be found below. No one can read what we publish without seeing that the cause of the rebels is becoming more and more desperate, the opposition to the conspiracy more and more decided, and the distress of the people more and more terrible. It is only necessary that we should call the attention of our readers to these extraordinary demonstrations of the tyranny and the poverty of the conspirators and people.

We begin with the leader of the Richmond Whig, which speaks under the head of "From the Rappahannock—The Fight on Friday." This article shows how much consternation has been created by the last advance of General Meade:

The community has been in a state of intense excitement for the past two days, and a "thousand and one" rumors have been in circulation concerning operations and the situation in Northern Virginia, with much exaggeration of what is reliable. From authentic sources, we have obtained the following, which embraces the occurrences since our last issue, excepting such as cannot be given to the public, for obvious reasons.

The enemy in large numbers, estimated at about three corps, crossed the Rapidan Thursday and Friday at Mitchell's, Germanna, Gold Mine, and other fords, threw up entrenchments, and commenced advancing from the river in three parallel columns. About half past 2 o'clock Friday afternoon their right wing, consisting of French's corps, advanced in a northeasterly direction, with the intention of flanking and cutting off Johnson's division of Ewell's corps, and his wagon train, which, as will be seen, was unsuccessful, and most signally defeated. General Johnson was advancing towards the river at the time, and when within about one and a half miles of the river the enemy opened fire and began a furious attack. Our men promptly and gallantly responded, and after hard fighting repulsed the enemy and drove them back within their entrenchments. The fight still continued, and the Yankees were several times driven from their fortifications, until night came on, and darkness put an end to the conflict. The loss of the enemy, as far as could be ascertained, was heavy, including a number of prisoners, which could not be ascertained with precision by wounded officers who left the field at night. Our loss is estimated at from three to four hundred killed and wounded, without a man taken prisoner. The enemy did not succeed in capturing a single wagon or horse.

At the time of the enemy's advance, their right is believed to have rested on Germanna Ford, and their extreme left wing at or near Chancellorsville. The fight occurred in a fair, open field, from which the enemy was driven, and is represented to have been desperate in the extreme. The brigades of the division that engaged the enemy were the 2d (Va.) brigade, Gen. Jones; Stafford's Louisiana brigade, the Stonewall brigade, Gen. Walker, and the 3d brigade, commanded by Gen. Geo. H. Stuart, of Maryland.

One of the prisoners taken in this fight, who arrived here yesterday evening, represents that their loss was very heavy.

Another account coincides with the above, but states that the forces on the part of the enemy consisted of Birney's and French's corps, and of Johnson's and a part of Early's division, commanded by General Hays, on our side.

About three hundred wounded arrived yesterday afternoon, and another ambulance train was expected at 11 o'clock last night.

On Friday Rosser's brigade, of Hampton's cavalry division, made a dash upon an ordnance train, between two corps of the Yankee army, near Eley's ford, and captured ninety odd teamsters, about seventy-five wagons, and three hundred fine mules. He succeeded in bringing off twelve wagons, and destroyed the remainder. All the mules and teamsters were secured, and the latter arrived here Saturday afternoon.

Passengers by the Fredericksburg train yesterday afternoon report all quiet in that vicinity.

Intelligence by the Central train last night states that some spirited skirmishing and cannonading occurred on a portion of the lines Saturday evening. Both armies were in line of battle. From all the indications at present, it seems probable that the battle will take place in Orange county, between the Court House and the Wilderness.

THE ENQUIRER TELLS ANOTHER STORY OF YESTERDAY'S BATTLE—IT ADMITS ANOTHER "SERIOUS REPULSE," AND FEARS AN ADVANCE.

THE FIGHT NEAR GERMANNA.—One hundred and seventy five soldiers, of General Edward Johnson's division, wounded in the fight on Friday evening, near Germanna Ford, on the south side of the Rapidan, arrived by a special train on the Central road, yesterday afternoon, at 5 o'clock. These comprise the severely wounded. The total loss of the division was about four hundred and fifty killed and wounded, including General George H. Stuart and General Jones, slightly wounded. The former, we learn, was not incapacitated from duty by his injuries. The wounded state that the battle was very severe. Johnson's division found itself, on the afternoon of Friday, pitted against a whole army corps of the enemy, under General French, but went in bravely, and though outnumbered three to one, finally repulsed the assailants and drove them several miles. During the night our forces fell back to a better position, and in the morning the enemy were reported to have occupied the ground held by the former on the previous day. Our entire line, from Fredericksburg up, is in readiness for the enemy at any moment. THIS SERIOUS REPULSE, however, added to the difficulties produced by the recent rains, will doubtless retard his movements, and enable us more completely to meet future emergencies. The enemy is supposed to have lost upwards of a thousand killed, wounded, and prisoners, in this engagement.

BUT THE EXAMINER HAS ANOTHER VERSION, AND THINKS THE RAIN WILL FORCE MEADE TO RETREAT OR "DELIVER BATTLE."

On Thursday night French's corps, of the Yankee army, crossed to the south bank at Germanna Ford and threw up entrenchments. Friday they advanced towards Spotsylvania Court House, with the design, it was thought, of making a flank attack upon Johnson's division, of Ewell's corps. At the same time Johnson's division was moving in the direction of Germanna Ford. The two forces, about two o'clock, P. M., came in collision in a field about a mile and a half from the river, and a very desperate battle ensued. From the beginning of the action until nightfall, when the fighting ceased, we drove the enemy at all points. Just before dark they succeeded in getting into their entrenchments, from some of which we dislodged them. Our loss in killed and wounded is about five hundred. Most of the wounded have already been brought to this city. The enemy's loss is not known with any accuracy, but it is believed to be three times as great as ours. We took a considerable number of prisoners, but have not been able to learn the precise number.

THE LATEST.

The following official dispatch from General Lee, which was received at the War Department yesterday, is the latest authentic news we have from the seat of war in Northern Virginia.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF NORTHERN VIRGINIA,
9 o'clock A. M., November 29, 1863.

To General S. Cooper.

A rain storm prevailed all day yesterday. No movements of any importance by either army. This morning the enemy is deploying in line of battle in our front.
R. E. LEE, General.

The rain storm mentioned by General Lee has been very general, and has, before this, had the effect of producing a considerable freshet in the Rapidan, a mountain torrent, very subject to great and sudden overflows. Such an event will greatly embarrass Meade's communications, and force him either to deliver battle at once or retreat. He has on this side the river about sixty five thousand men, which he, no doubt, deems sufficient to crush his antagonist. We may, therefore, presume that he will fight, and immediately.

The reports of persons who left the army at eleven o'clock A. M. bring little additional information. They say that some unimportant skirmishing took place Saturday evening.

The Examiner, speaking of the forthcoming battle, says:

But it is useless to speculate on this great matter. The Lord of Hosts now hath His hand upon it, and arbitrament may be known before the sun goes down.

"CAPTURE OF GEN. MEADE'S HEADQUARTERS."

The Enquirer says:

On Thursday, the same source informs us, Mosby made a circuit into Culpeper, came upon Meade's headquarters on the railroad, a few miles this side of the Court House, surprised and captured one of Meade's clerks or aids, burnt the cars, which comprised the headquarters, and brought off a number of Yankees, together with a large lot of horses and wagons. It is more than probable that the horses, wagons, and most of the prisoners were captured by Mosby in Fairfax, and that he burned the cars on his return. The prisoners from these raids have arrived in Richmond.

WHAT THE ASSOCIATED PRESS SAYS OF THE UNION SOLDIERS NEAR CHATTANOOGA.

ATLANTA, November 27.—The battle began by the enemy charging Lookout, forty thousand strong, and at the same time occupying the attention of our right wing at the foot of Mission Ridge. The onset at first was not impetuous, but increased in vigor as the day advanced.

Hill's corps, commanded by Breckinridge, met the shock with unflinching courage. Late in the afternoon the enemy increased, and, by repeated attacks, made an impression on our lines. At 4 P. M. the left centre gave way—the enemy pouring through the valley like a flood. Our troops on Lookout, seeing themselves cut off, became confused and retreated in disorder.

During the night, the enemy not pursuing, the remnant of our left was withdrawn to Mission Ridge, where our troops were massed for the morrow's battle. Some of our commands on the left were captured.

On Wednesday, before sunrise, the enemy advanced his whole force with ardor upon the works at the foot of Mission Ridge. Hardee, commanding, then met the attack with wonderful vigor and success. Charge after charge was repulsed. Five hundred dead lay in front of our works. Our right stood firm. The battle ceased at dark on Wednesday. After nightfall the enemy improved his position on Lookout, posting batteries to enfilade the position on Mission Ridge, necessitating its evacuation, when our line fell backward eastward of Mission Ridge and behind Chickamauga, where it now stands. The battle was not renewed on Thursday. Our loss in killed and wounded is not a thousand; the enemy's is at least twenty thousand. Our loss in prisoners is not known; we have six hundred prisoners. Grant commanded in person. The Washington and Cobb's artillery lost all their guns. General Waltham is not seriously wounded, and is now here. Gov. Harris, who fought through the battle, is also here. Our wounded are beginning to arrive. Bragg's headquarters are now at Ringgold.

GROANS OVER THE DEFEAT OF BRAGG.

The Richmond Whig says:

The meagre details that reach us from Gen. Bragg in no degree lessen the magnitude assigned to his disaster by public opinion on the reception of the first news of the reverse. The loss of five thousand prisoners is a painful addendum to the loss of the field. Other particulars furnished compel us to think that the defeat was little short of a rout, and it is probably due to the failure of the enemy to pursue, that it lacks any feature of that most deplorable calamity that can befal an army. It is far from pleasant to have to confess that the largest army we have owes its safety to the want of enterprise in the enemy; but in this case we may do so without disparaging the courage that has been displayed on too many fields to be doubted. A more fatal want than that of courage—want of confidence in their commander—unnerved and paralyzed that army. An army of cowards, well disciplined and trusting in their leader, may fight well; but an army of brave men, feeling that they are in the hands of an incompetent commander, will fight badly. This truth has long since formed itself into the adage that "an army of asses led by a lion is better than an army of lions led by an ass."

But the safety of the remnant of Bragg's army is only temporary; unless the command is immediately changed, and reinforcements are sent to its relief. The least avoidable delay in the first of these steps is a criminal trifling with interests as important as were ever committed to the keeping of mortal man. If we are not misled by information that no one would be apt to discredit, the army now under General Bragg, discontented almost to mutiny before the late disaster, cannot be kept together under his leadership. It is a matter about which the Commander-in-Chief cannot now be considered as having any discretion. Circumstances more imperative even than the voice of the people demand a change. Fortunately, the service affords more than one man so situated at present as to be available for this duty, whose transfer the country and the army will hail with delight. It is unnecessary to name them. We think it necessary only to remark that the value of any effort to retrieve the calamity that has resulted from General Bragg's incompetency will depend mainly upon the promptness with which it is made.

The propriety of reinforcing the army on the Chickamauga does not need discussing—the best mode of doing so is hardly a fit subject for the newspapers. There are various bodies of troops that it is obvious can be made of more use now by being consolidated with that army than in their present fields of service. Concentration affords the readiest and surest relief. If instantly and vigorously set about, and a new commander be placed at the head of the combined forces, we may not only retrieve the losses we have sustained, but visit upon the foe a vengeance that will be remembered while the world stands.

P. S.—Later information raises a doubt as to the accuracy of the statement that the enemy are not pursuing. Grant is said to be following up his victory with characteristic energy, despite the loss of "twenty thousand" men—a canard which, as the reader will perceive, comes from Atlanta, the headquarters of the Press Association.

It is evident from the above that the compliment of Jeff. Davis to Bragg, on a recent occasion, was not relished by the Whig or any of its clique.

THE CRISIS IS UPON US.

General Bragg's official dispatch, says the Augusta Constitutionalist, conveys the unwelcome tidings that the enemy, after several unsuccessful attempts, carried his left centre, and that his whole left gave way in considerable disorder, and that he is withdrawing to Chickamauga. The crisis is upon us, and the people of Georgia must arouse themselves to the stern requirements of the occasion, and be prepared to meet the overwhelming forces of the invader by contesting every inch of our soil, and defending our hearth stones from the polluting presence of the accursed crew who are now endeavoring to deprive us of our birthright, and force upon our people a government more odious and degrading than the worst species of African bondage. Let us be ready to rally as one man. The time has come when Georgia demands of every man to do his duty. Let the stern resolve animate us all never to be subdued, but to

"Strike (ever) for our altars and our fires;
Strike for the green graves of our sires,
God and our native land!"

The Missionary Ridge correspondent of the Richmond Dispatch describes the situation of the rebels after the battle of the 24th, as follows:

Orders have been given to evacuate the mountain and for the whole army to retire across the Chickamauga, in the direction of the station of that name. The loss of Lookout Valley and Brown's Ferry removed all doubt as to the ability of General Grant to subsist his army at Chattanooga this winter, and rendered the longer possession of Lookout Mountain of comparatively little importance, and now that the mountain has passed into his hands there is no reason left why we should longer remain in the mud and water around Chattanooga. Besides, Grant has been throwing a heavy force up the river and crossing it over in the boats we neglected to burn all this afternoon. A portion of this force consists of cavalry, which have been landed above the mouth of the Chickamauga. Some infantry have also been landed on the east side of that stream—the remainder and much the more numerous body on the west side—all up the Tennessee and some distance above our right wing. This movement greatly endangers the depot and railroad, and furnishes an additional reason for withdrawing across the Chickamauga. Another danger, and a still more serious one, is the probability that Grant will turn our right and get between the main army and Longstreet at Knoxville. It is now well ascertained that Sherman has not gone to the relief of Burnside, as was fully believed a few days ago; but the whole Federal army is here marshalling for our destruction. Perhaps Grant has concluded that he could best succor Burnside by forcing Bragg to retire.

I have just heard that our communications with Knoxville have been cut, probably by the Federal cavalry that crossed the river above this afternoon, and that the depot buildings at Joyner's Station, on the Chattanooga and East Tennessee road have been burnt.

Nov. 25th—3 A. M.—Finding that he could not withdraw his army in time, General Bragg has given orders to mass his whole available force on the right. A battle may be expected to day. The situation is critical.
SALLUST.

LONGSTREET'S POSITION IN EAST TENNESSEE THE SUBJECT OF ANXIOUS INQUIRY.

In the following paragraph from the Examiner, it will be seen that "Longstreet may find a safe retreat either into Virginia or North Carolina;" but the Examiner is greatly agonized.

The position of Longstreet in East Tennessee is the subject of frequent and most anxious inquiry. The news from that quarter, as far as it goes, is very good; but the long delay in concluding is a just cause of great uneasiness. We are told that Knoxville is invested on all sides; that Burnside and his whole force is shut up; that all other Federal troops in East Tennessee have left the country by way of Cumberland Gap; that Longstreet is starving his adversary into surrender. But we do not know what amount of provisions may have been collected in Knoxville. It is not probable that there was enough collected here, in the short space of time which has elapsed since the advance of the enemy into East Tennessee, to support a long siege; but they may possibly have enough to subsist seven or eight thousand men for a week or two. Now that Grant has lifted Bragg from his front, he may prefer sending a part of his army to relieve Burnside to an advance upon the Confederate line of the Chickamauga. These are reflections which trouble the pleasure with which the public peruses the cheerful telegram from East Tennessee. But they may be relieved at any moment by an authoritative statement of Burnside's surrender. Meantime we can see little ground for apprehending a disaster in that quarter. If the Federal forces at Chattanooga moved on Longstreet, he would not wait to be enveloped; and a safe retreat into Virginia or North Carolina is always open to him.

TERRIBLE SACRIFICES—TEN AND ELEVEN THOUSAND DOLLARS FOR A SUBSTITUTE.

HEROIC SACRIFICES.—We understand, says the Richmond "Enquirer," that two substitutes have recently been purchased in this city, one for ten thousand and the other for eleven thousand dollars. Considering the manifest destiny of the substitute system, this is rather a heroic temptation of fate, provided the principals design remaining in the Confederacy to luxuriate upon the surplus of their fortunes. But while so many are departing the country, and leaving non combatants behind to take care of their property, it is not probable that such gentlemen will await the action of Congress on the substitute question. To mass a fortune, convert a portion of it into real estate, and another portion of it into gold, then to set sail for Europe to await the termination of the war, while the wife stays at home, as a locum tenens of the property, is a scheme becoming vastly popular just now with substitute men.

UNPLEASANT RUMORS.

The Raleigh Progress learns from a gentleman who came up from Goldsboro Friday, that a rumor prevailed there that a portion, probably one half, of Captain White's company, Colonel Whitford's battalion, had been taken by the enemy. We trust that the rumor may prove to be false.—[Petersburg Express, November 30.]

HERSCHEL V. JOHNSON AGAINST TOOMBS.

It will be remembered that Robert H. Toombs made a great speech in which he denounced the insanity of the rebel financiers. Herschel V. Johnson, just elected Senator to the rebel Congress, made a speech at Milledgeville, Ga., on the 24th of November, in which he said:

He would not have the arrogance to say that he could offer a remedy for our financial difficulties. He thought taxation must be vigorously resorted to, and had been delayed too long.

He denounced those who have tried the spirit of the people by abuses of the impressment law, and counselled harmony and hopeful perseverance. He wished he had language to portray the importance of our whole people being a unit. With our armies in the field—the noblest race of men ever marshalled under banners—with their bosoms bared to the enemy, how will they feel when they see us wrangling over a few dollars taken from us by impressment? If we would discourage them let us indulge in this fault finding spirit. He was proud to see that the General Assembly had reaffirmed the step she took in 1861. There is no step backward. All is now involved in the struggle that is dear to man—home, society, liberty, honor, everything—with the certainty of the most degrading fate that ever oppressed a people if we fail. It is not recorded in history that 8,000,000 of united people, resolved to be free, have failed. We cannot yield if we would. Yield to the Federal authorities—to vassalage and subjugation! The bleaching bones of 100,000 gallant soldiers slain in battle would be clothed in tongues of fire to curse to everlasting infamy the man that whispers yield. God is with us, because he is always with the right. He closed in counselling a firm reliance on Providence, and the cultivation of a spirit of reliance and devotion.

But the Petersburg Express of the 30th is not quite so patriotic, for it says:

The misery of a redundant currency is sorely exercising Southern patriotism, and the brains of our statesmen and would-be statesmen are daily being racked to devise some plan for correcting the evil. It is to be hoped that out of the multitude of measures that have been proposed, elaborated, and discussed since its adjournment, Congress will be able after it meets to frame a law that will suit the case and secure the much-needed reform. By collating the various schemes which have been put forth and combining their respective excellencies, with such additions and adaptations as sound practical sense may dictate, we should suppose that a law might be proposed which would effect the desired purpose.

Of the markets the Richmond Whig has the following suggestive article:

THE CITY MARKETS.—The supplies of provisions in the First and Second Markets last week were more abundant and in larger variety than we have seen them for some time past. In addition to the assortment of vegetables, eggs, etc., offered in the markets by countrymen and gardeners, were the stocks of similar articles in the numerous green grocers' stalls and shops near the markets—affording a still wider range of selection, and increasing the general plenty. Besides, there were the commission stores, where beef by the quarter, butter by the package, dressed poultry by the pound, potatoes by the bushel, etc., could be obtained by those who wanted them, and had the means of paying for them. So, it is obvious, that we are not going to starve so long as producers are as liberal with their supplies as they are at present.

The chief inconvenience in the way of subsistence, of which the community has reasonable cause of complaint, is the scarcity of flour, and this will probably be removed soon after Congress meets. The powers and privileges of impressing agents will no doubt be circumscribed and defined, after which, wheat and flour will again flow into the city. Corn is already coming in more freely, and the price of corn meal will come down. But, revenons à nos moutons, as the French say. We commenced this paragraph for the purpose of placing upon record, for the information of our readers and the amazement of future generations, the prices current at the markets in this city on Saturday last. The list is subjoined:

FRESH MEATS.—The prevailing prices were $1 25 to $1 50 per pound for beef, $1 25 for veal, $1 25 to $1 50 for lamb and mutton, $2 for pork, $1 for liver, 75 cents to $1 for tripe, $1 25 a $1 50 for sausage meat.

LIVE POULTRY.—Turkeys, $10 a $12 each; geese, $9 a $10; ducks, $7 a $9 per pair; pullets and Guinea fowl, $5 a $6 per pair.

DRESSED POULTRY.—Turkeys, $10a$18 each, according to size; ducks, $5; pullets, $4a5. At the stores $1 25 to $1 50 per pound.

FRUIT.—Apples, $1 50 to $2 per quart; cranberries, $1 per quart; persimmons, 50 cents per quart—abundant.

NUTS.—Walnuts and hickory-nuts, 50 cts. per quart.

The safe-keeping of the Yankee prisoners, with whom we are now unfortunately burdened, should be the first care of the authorities in this emergency, especially since the exposé of a contemplated revolt two or three weeks since. We are satisfied that every precaution has been and is being exercised. As the security of the city and the property of citizens is alike involved, we have no doubt but that a call upon the citizens for guard duty would be responded to in a manner that would place at rest any apprehensions that might be felt on that score.

(From the Richmond Enquirer, Nov. 30.)

THE EXCHANGE CORRESPONDENCE.—Judge Ould recently received a letter from Brigadier General Meredith, enclosing a communication from Major General Hitchcock, of which the following is a copy:

WASHINGTON CITY, D. C.,
November 13, 1863.

Brig. Gen S. A. Meredith,
Comm'r for Exchange of Prisoners.

SIR: I am not yet informed whether any, or how far, relief may have reached our unfortunate prisoners of war in Richmond and its vicinity, under the orders of the Secretary of War, to send supplies to them of both food and clothing.

Mr. Ould should be notified, for the information of his Government, that whatever steps may have been or may be taken, to extend relief, (to the prisoners of war in Richmond,) must, on no consideration, be appealed to by the enemy to relieve him from the obligation to treat prisoners according to the laws of civilized warfare. If, in other words, our prisoners in Richmond fail to receive such supplies as the laws alike of humanity and war require, the authorities in Richmond must be informed that it will not be considered a valid explanation or excuse for them to appeal to the fact, should it exist, that supplies from us have not reached them.

The action of our Government on this matter is dictated purely by humanity, and is only an effort to relieve our prisoners of suffering inflicted upon them contrary to the claims of both humanity and the laws of war, and must not be understood as relieving the authorities of Richmond from responsibility to the Christian world in the premises.

If the authorities in Richmond will send us these prisoners, we will not only feed and clothe them, but will continue to supply food and clothing as heretofore to such prisoners as may be in our possession, and you will propose to Mr. Ould that in this case we will agree, without any reserve, to respect the parole they may give according to the laws of war, from which they shall not be relieved in view of the past differences or pending questions on the subject of exchange, without the previously obtained consent of the authorities represented by Mr. Ould, as agent for the exchange under the cartel.

You will please lose no time in communicating a copy of this note, certified by yourself, to Mr. Ould, and will urge upon him its acceptance as due to the most solemn considerations in the face of the civilized world. Very respectfully, your obedient servant,
E. A. HITCHCOCK, Maj. Gen. Vols.,
Commissioner for Exchange of Prisoners.

HOW SHALL THE SLAVES BE SAVED FROM FREEDOM?

REMOVAL OF NEGROES WHEN THREATENED BY THE ENEMY—CORRESPONDENCE BETWEEN THE GOVERNOR OF MISSISSIPPI AND THE PRESIDENT.—The Mississippi papers publish the following to show the action of Governor Clark in regard to the arrest and bringing away, by order of the military authorities, of all negroes when in danger of falling into the hands of the enemy. The dispatch of President Davis shows what is the order of the Government in such cases:

EXECUTIVE OFFICE, COLUMBUS,
November 21, 1863.

Gentlemen of the Senate and House of Representatives:

I was informed on the 8th instant that the Confederate authorities were apprehending negroes in the northwestern part of the State. I immediately telegraphed General Johnston and Brigadier General Chalmers, and was informed by the former that, "under instructions from the President, our troops are ordered to bring off all male negroes of military age in danger of falling into the hands of the enemy." In reply, I expressed the hope that the order would be revoked. That it perpetuated the evil it was intended to remedy, and that the negroes, fearing our troops, in their alarm, would fly to the enemy.

Immediately upon the passage of your joint resolution in relation to illegal impressments, I telegraphed the same to President Davis, and, informing him of the condition of affairs in the border counties, assured him that the policy pursued would, in my judgment, result in disastrous consequences. To this I received the following reply:

RICHMOND, November 19, 1863.

Governor Clark:

Your dispatch of yesterday is received. General instructions are given to remove negro men from localities where they would probably be conscribed by the enemy for service in their army. It was directed that owners should have their option as to whether they would retain control of the negroes so removed, or throw the responsibility and future care and support upon the Government. If more has been done than this, it was in violation of orders, and the Secretary of War has been directed to give prompt attention to the matter.
JEFFERSON DAVIS.

I hope that in further consideration of the subject, the President will revoke the orders given, or so change them as to avoid the dangers arising from their enforcement.

Whenever illegal impressments shall be reported to me, I shall use the power vested in the Executive to punish the offenders. I would respectfully call your attention to the necessity of legislation on this subject, and providing for further penalties for the crime of obtaining goods under false pretences, and the more speedy relief to parties against trespass upon their property.
CHARLES CLARK.

It will be seen here that the only care is for the negroes of military age, and that their families are to be left in the hands of "the Yankees." What sort of slaves will the "negroes of military age" make in the absence of their wives and children!

Another Account of the Chattanooga Battle.

A few minutes after 1 A. M. on Monday, the troops all being in line of battle, and the enemy lining the crest of the hill looking upon the magnificent array below, the heavy siege guns of Fort Wood, under the charge of Lieutenant Dunwiddie, of the 12th Wisconsin battery, opened fire, and General Wood's division moved forward. At the same time the pickets in his front began skirmishing, and on being reinforced drove the enemy into their rifle-pits along the creek and at the base of an isolated knob, half-way between Chattanooga and Mission Ridge.

As General Wood advanced, he soon got under the fire of these guns, and suffered considerable from them. General Wood moved, with a part of Hazel's brigade on the right and Willich on the left, General Sam Beatty being in reserve. The 8th Kansas did the skirmishing for the entire line.

The enemy was encountered before the first hundred yards had been traversed, and while Wood's front became immediately engaged he pushed forward rapidly, driving the enemy before him into their rifle-pits, and began in earnest a very brisk and rapid fire.

The fight in the woods was of short duration, for General Wood finding the enemy safely ensconced behind huge rifle-pits, ordered a charge of his whole front, and two brigades of Willich and Hazel, charging with a yell, went into the rebel works without faltering—General Wood says without a straggler. The enemy broke and fled to his second line of works at the mountain, losing, in his disorder, about two hundred prisoners, representing mainly Hindman's division, and a large portion belonging to the 8th Alabama infantry.

Though the force in Wood's front had been routed, there still remained a force in the works on his left flank, and these were developed as soon as General Howard moved forward and attempted to take position on the creek. He became engaged in a sharp skirmish, the enemy persistently holding their own.

Seeing this, Gen. Granger sent Gen. Samuel Beatty by flank movement to the right of this position. He came upon the enemy's left flank very unexpectedly, and after a few minutes' fighting on their flank, with a vigorous attack by General Howard in front, the enemy fell back, and we found ourselves in entire possession of the first line of rifle pits, and the important portion of Bald Knob. The positions taken were entrenched, and the centre found itself next morning in a strong defensive position, awaiting operations on the flanks.

During the night of Monday General Sherman succeeded in reaching his position on the north side of the river, opposite to the mouth of Chickamauga creek. The 10th Ohio had boats in order for crossing, the steamer Dunbar being moved during the same night to the same point. At daylight Sherman began crossing his three divisions, under Ewing, M. L. and J. C. Smith, and that of General Davis.

This latter division, holding itself in readiness to act as a reserve to the 15th corps, finished crossing at 1 A. M., and had no sooner done so, and taken a position in the tete de pont, than Sherman moved to attack a supposed position on the south end of Mission Ridge.

The centre was held during Tuesday by Generals Granger, Palmer and Howard. General Granger remained quiet; General Palmer also remained quiet in a threatening attitude, facing toward the valley between Lookout and Mission Ridge.

General Howard's corps (the 11th) was employed during the day in opening communications and forcing a junction with Sherman at the mouth of the Chickamauga. This was effected without serious opposition by noon.

While General Sherman proceeded to demonstrate upon the rebel right, Hooker made an attempt on the rebel left on Lookout Mountain, in order to take this position or compel reinforcements.

General Hooker moved up the valley west of Lookout Mountain toward Trenton. The enemy supposed him to be moving to a gap some miles south of Point Lookout, but having this guarded, apparently did not fear his attack.

Hooker continued to push around the mountain, and had obtained a strong foothold on the spur of the point, when he found the enemy in his rifle-pits on the east slope, which were systematically captured and immediately occupied by Geary. But the enemy rallied and made a charge for the possession of the works they had just relinquished.

Geary, being out of ammunition, was about being overpowered, when reinforcements arrived under General Carlin, and the 88th Indiana and 33d Ohio going in at the double quick, the enemy gave up and fell back under a murderous fire to hastily-constructed works in the rear, and covering the Summertown road.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Let no one fail to read every line of the letter of the Rev. E. W. Hutter, of Philadelphia, describing his visit to the Richmond prisoners at Annapolis. It is a terrible record.

The results of the battle of Chattanooga are still to be fully appreciated. Prisoners are constantly being sent in, and they number now about seven thousand. It is reported that the mountains are full of deserters from the rebel Kentucky and Tennessee regiments, trying to get home. Bragg is said to be moving southward. Ringgold has been evacuated by our troops, who destroyed everything of value to the enemy, and the railroad to Chickamauga. Burnside can hold his own.

The Missouri Legislature was a tie vote on the motion to call a new State convention. Some joint resolutions were introduced, among them one to amend the Constitution so as to prohibit slavery forever in the United States.

The old Democratic machinery is broken up in New York, as shown by the election of Mr. Gunther, who ran for Mayor against the regular candidate of Mozart Hall and Tammany.

The Canada (Toronto) papers deny that the rebel General Morgan has escaped into Canada. It is believed that he crossed the Ohio river, and is now on his way into Virginia.

The last report about the guerrilla chief Morgan is that he had reached Detroit.

STATE RIGHTS AND NATIONAL RIGHTS.

Differences of opinion, honestly entertained and temperately discussed, are beneficial. Violence itself is not more dangerous to a State than would be the monotony of accord, were it possible to substitute such a condition of things in the body politic. Looking over the field from this point, there is little to deprecate in the platform of the Illinois War Democracy, who held their Conference Convention at Chicago on the 25th ultimo. With many of the sentiments therein declared all loyal men must heartily agree. Others, less essential, will not receive so unqualified assent. Others, still, seem to indicate future ...

Of this latter class that embodied in the eighth resolution may be selected as worthy of consideration. It declares that while there are State rights and National rights no State is privileged to be a nation. As a proposition this cannot be considered objectionable. But how is it called for and upon what consideration is it based? Is there any considerable party in the North which denies the contemporaneous and distinct existence of State and National rights? ...

SPECIAL NOTICES.

LADIES' SANITARY FAIR—TO THE PUBLIC.—By a reference to the papers it will be seen that the ladies of Washington have decided upon the getting up a Fair in aid of the Sanitary Commission. A committee has been appointed to arrange and conduct it on a scale similar to the highly successful enterprise recently held in Chicago. The committee are determined to spare no labor or trouble to make this Fair not only a substantial benefit to our brave soldiers, but to make it in every way worthy of the Federal Metropolis.

To this end a cordial co-operation is respectfully solicited from the National and Municipal authorities, societies, schools, merchants, and all benevolent persons. Donations of all descriptions of useful and ornamental goods are solicited; also, subscriptions in money to enable the committee to erect a suitable building for the purpose, and to purchase such articles as may be necessary to complete the exhibition.

It is hoped the ladies will come forward with one accord and take an active part in this great and noble work, thus proving to our brave defenders, who are separated from home and all that is dear to them, that they are not forgotten in this the National Capital.

Ladies are respectfully invited to call on the Committee of Arrangements in their respective wards, who will give them general instructions.

The committee express the hope that a hearty and general response will enable them to open the Fair by the 1st of January, or very soon thereafter.

Communications to be addressed to Mrs. Lieutenant Brookfield, Chairman of Committee of Arrangements, or to the Secretary.

AID TO THE FAMILIES OF VOLUNTEERS.
To the Citizens of the District of Columbia:

By order of the Executive Committee, the following statement and appeal is made:

At the great war meeting at the Capitol on the 6th day of August, 1862, a Committee was appointed to solicit funds from the citizens of the District of Columbia for the purpose of aiding the families of volunteers in active service in any [illegible] the District of Columbia, or any volunteer from the District in any other regiment.

The Committee, consisting of the following citizens of the District, viz: B. B. French, Henry Addison, Richard Wallach, Samuel E. Douglass, George H. Plant, Hudson Taylor, Franck Taylor, John M. Brodhead, George R. Wilson, John H. Semmes, E. J. Middleton, William B. Todd, William J. Murtagh, Joseph F. Brown, Judson Mitchell, William H. Tenney, John Marbury, Jr., Geo. W. Deall, and Henry D. Cooke, proceeded at once to discharge the duties assigned to them.

The citizens contributed generously, and $20,745 was collected, and $18,726 of it was disbursed for the benefit of the families of volunteers during the autumn and winter, leaving $2,019 in hand, to commence operations the coming winter.

About $500 has been already added to this sum by collections during the past month, and, on the 1st of December, instant, the Committee commenced paying to the wives, children, mothers, and sisters of volunteers, on whom they are dependent for support.

It will take fully as much money this year, disbursed on the same principle that it was last, to meet the demands upon the Committee, and, it must be obvious to all, that, unless our good citizens, who have been so dependent upon our brave volunteers for the protection of their homes, will contribute liberally to the comfort of the families of such volunteers, the Committee must suspend operations, and these families suffer for the necessaries of life, while their protectors are bravely fighting our battles on the fields of blood and carnage.

We believe—indeed, we know—that the generous citizens of the District of Columbia will never permit these families to suffer while they are enjoying all the comforts and, perhaps, the luxuries of life.

We appeal, therefore, most earnestly, to every citizen to contribute forthwith such sums as they can afford, to this worthy purpose. We ask them to forward to any member of the Committee above named their contributions, and we also ask such citizens as can, to lend their aid to the Committee in obtaining contributions.

B. B. FRENCH,
de2-1t Chairman and Treasurer.

NO LONGER A LUXURY—IT HAS BECOME A NECESSITY.—The elaborate controversy, whether tobacco and cigars constitute a luxury or necessity, has at last been decided. The latter claims the victory. In obedience to a recent order issued by Major General Meade, Army Sutlers are permitted to supply the various camps only with tobacco, cigars and pipes. This gives the brave soldier an opportunity for an innocent indulgence and a great treat. After a long and weary march, or, perhaps, after a hard-fought battle, he can enjoy a puff and watch the blue curling clouds of his darling pipe. With almost a child-like delight he observes his little camp-sweetheart assume a deeper brown, or color, and hands it to his companions for a puff and inspection. It has been fully demonstrated, by eminent physicians, that the use of tobacco and cigars is entirely healthy; some go so far as to say that it promotes digestion. Mr. William Grosse concurs in this opinion and begs to recommend his great Tobacco and Cigar Emporium, corner of Sixth street and Pennsylvania avenue, to the special attention of Sutlers. Mr. Grosse's stock excels in quantity and quality, whilst his prices are acceptable to all who have been dealing at his establishment. d3-6t[illegible]

MEDICINAL.

DR. J. R. NEWTON,

PRACTICAL PHYSICIAN FOR ALL CURABLE DISEASES.

NO. 457 THIRTEENTH STREET,

(Between E and F streets.)

Dr. Newton's treatment is peculiar to himself; although there have been men in all ages who have had the same magnetic power over diseases of the body and mind, (it is called the "Gift of Healing,") yet few have seemed to possess it to such an extent over nearly all diseases and persons. It is life and vitality passed from a strong, healthy body to a weak one, that restore the lost or unequal circulation of the vital or nervous fluid. So powerful is this influence, that persons who have for many years suffered from diseases which have been pronounced incurable, and to whom medicine has been administered with no good effect, have been restored to health in an almost incredibly short space of time. It will not restore a lost member of the body or perform other impossibilities, but it will always relieve pain from whatever cause. The practice is based upon the most strict principles of science; there is nothing miraculous or supernatural about it. It is in harmony with all natural laws. Many eminent physicians, of every other practice, not only acknowledge this power, but receive the treatment for themselves and families as well as advise it to their patients. Dr. Newton does not profess to cure every case, and owing to the uncertainty of curing Deafness, will not treat this disease.

By this treatment, it takes but from five to thirty minutes for inveterate cases of almost any curable chronic disease—and, so sure is the effect, that but few diseases require a second operation, excepting deafness, epilepsy, and consumption. Exception is also made to broken bones, dislocations, bad curvatures of the spine, and suppurating tumors. Even these will be much benefited—always relieved from pain, and sometimes fully cured. Diseases that are most certain of being cured at one operation are,

Weak Eyes,
Weak Spines,
Falling of the Womb,
All kinds of Sexual Weakness,
Internal Ulcers,
Loss of Voice,
Diseased Livers, Kidneys, Heart,
St. Vitus' Dance,
Weakness of the Limbs,
Dyspepsia,
Rheumatism,
Bronchitis,
Diabetes,
Nervous Debility.

Paralysis seems the most slow and uncertain with this treatment; sometimes, though rarely, these patients have been fully restored with one operation; they are, however, always benefited.

Dr. Newton has circulars giving the names and testimonies of multitudes of persons cured, but this is designed to give but a few of the many prominent cases treated while in New Haven and Hartford in a few weeks.

Wm. Keith, Postmaster, Tolland, Conn., cured of spasms that he has had from infancy.

Mrs. William Mix, 39 Crown street, New Haven; cancer; cured.

Miss Marietta Lyon, Bridgeport, Conn., 17 years old, shortness of breath since six years old. The distress of her breathing was most painful to hear; she kept her mouth open all the time, gasping and breathing three times where a well person would once; cured with twenty minutes' treatment.

Samuel H. Howard, Norwich, Conn., rheumatism, bad, fifteen years, cured. Also, straight finger made to bend easy.

Catharine F. Davis, Guilford, Conn., spine disease and female weakness, through tall, weighed but fifty-nine pounds, unable to have her head raised for seven years, and could not speak even in whisper for five years; conversed by signs. She was brought on a bed from Guilford eighteen miles. Cured with twenty minutes' treatment to walk and talk as well as any one. This was in August, 1863. She is now in fine health.

EXECUTIVE ENLISTMENT COMMITTEE ROOM,
MAYOR'S OFFICE, CITY HALL,
WASHINGTON, D. C., December, 1863.

The undersigned, Executive Committee for the encouragement of Volunteering in the District of Columbia, beg leave to appeal to the loyal and patriotic citizens of Washington for aid in furtherance of the object they have in view. Suitable and reliable persons are appointed, each of whom will be provided with a book and authority to collect funds from those disposed to contribute.

The Committee confidently hope that their efforts may be met with a hearty response from every loyal person, and that our city may be enabled to prove to the country that we require no further draft to fill up the quota assigned us. But that vieing with the love of country and good Government, which induced her in the earliest days of the rebellion to send to the field a larger proportion of volunteers than any other section of our land, we will, to the close of this wicked and unrighteous war, relax no efforts in aiding our constituted authorities in asserting their supremacy, and in showing that the National Capital is worthy the hallowed name it bears:
